

Carmen-Smith Hydroelectric Project

Relicensing Agreement: Cultural and Historical

The Eugene Water & Electric Board will protect the cultural and historical resources as part of relicensing its Carmen-Smith Hydroelectric Project. Here are the highlights:

- Protect and document all known historic sites.
- Pursue official designation of the Carmen-Smith project site as “historic” on the National Register of Historic Places.
- Conduct surveys for Native American and other cultural sites during construction of fish passage improvements at Trail Bridge Reservoir.
- Protect and enhance plant species that are culturally important to Native Americans. Make certain improvements to make these culturally important species accessible to tribal elders and others with limited physical abilities.
